

Brazil orders house arrest for ex president Bolsonaro

RIO DE JANEIRO - Brazil's Supreme Federal Court on Monday ordered former president Jair Bolsonaro to be placed under house arrest for non-compliance with previous legal restrictions tied to an ongoing investigation for his alleged involvement in the 2022 coup plot.

Justice Alexandre de Moraes ruled that Bolsonaro breached a ban on using social media by disseminating messages through accounts managed by his sons and political allies.

The posts allegedly incited attacks against the supreme court and expressed support for foreign intervention in the Brazilian judiciary, said Moraes.

"There is no doubt that there was a deliberate breach of the precautionary measure imposed on Jair Messias Bolsonaro," said the justice, adding that more severe sanctions were needed to prevent the former president from continuing to commit crimes.

The order requires Bolsonaro to remain at home, wear an electronic ankle monitor, and hand over his cellphones.

He will not be able to receive visits, except from his lawyers and other people previously authorised by the supreme court.

media or contacting other suspects, Bolsonaro continued to influence digital political debate through third parties, Moraes noted.

The former president faces multiple investigations by Brazil's top court, including one related to his alleged role in efforts of an attempted coup following the 2022 elections.

Last month, Moraes announced strict legal restrictions on Bolsonaro, including nightly home confinement on weekdays, full-time home confinement on weekends and holidays, and a ban on contacting foreign diplomats or visiting embassies and consulates.

UN starts new bid to forge plastics treaty amid 'global crisis'

GENEVA - Nations must resolve the global plastics crisis, the head of UN talks told negotiators from 180 countries gathered in Geneva on Tuesday to forge a landmark treaty on eliminating the life-threatening waste.

"We are facing a global crisis," Ecuadorian diplomat Luis Vayas Bualdivieso said at the start of 10 days of negotiations.

"Plastic pollution is damaging ecosystems, polluting our oceans and rivers, threatening biodiversity, harming human health, and unfairly impacting the most vulnerable," he said.

"The urgency is real, the evidence is clear, and the responsibility is on us."

Three years of negotiations hit the wall in Busan, South Korea in December when oil-producing states blocked a consensus.

Key figures steering the negotiations at this new attempt said they were not expecting an easy ride this time, but insisted a deal remained within reach.

"There's been extensive diplomacy from Busan till now," UN Environment Programme executive director Inger Andersen told AFP.

UNEP is hosting the talks, and Andersen said conversations between different regions and interest groups had generated momentum.

Most countries, actually, that I have spoken with have said: 'We're coming to Geneva to strike the deal.'

"Will it be easy? No. Will it be straightforward? No. Is there a pathway for a deal? Absolutely."

Plastic pollution is so ubiquitous that microplastics have been found on the highest mountain peaks, in the deepest ocean trench and scattered throughout almost every part of the human body.

In 2022, countries agreed they would find a way to address the crisis by the end of 2024. However, the supposedly final negotiations on a legally-binding instrument on plastic pollution, including in the seas, flopped in Busan.

One group of countries sought an ambitious deal to limit production and phase out harmful chemicals.

But a clutch of mostly oil-producing nations rejected production limits and wanted to focus on treating waste.

Valdivieso insisted that an effective, fair and ambitious agreement was within reach.

"Our paths and positions might differ, our destination is the same," he said Monday.

"We are all here because we believe in a shared cause: a world free of plastic pollution."

More than 600 non-governmental organisations are in Geneva. NGOs and civil society have access to the discussions tackling the thorniest points, such as banning certain chemicals and capping production.

Desperate, deadly times...

Countries denounce Israel but keep trading with it

SOME of these countries have recognised the Palestinian state while France last week angered Israeli officials by announcing it would do the same in September.

Still, many critics have pointed out that as countries make these statements, many of them continue to benefit from trade with Israel and have not imposed sanctions or taken any other action that could push Israel to end its genocidal war on Gaza.

The war has killed at least 59 821 people in Gaza and wounded 144 477.

Here's all you need to know about the countries profiting from Israel while condemning its military action:

How much do the signatories of the statement trade with Israel?

Belgium, France, Ireland, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Poland, Spain, Switzerland and the United Kingdom all have more than $1bn in imports, exports or both with Israel, according to 2023 figures from the Observatory of Economic Complexity.

What do these countries trade with Israel?

Among the top items being traded are cars and other motor vehicles, integrated circuits, vaccines and perfumes.

About US$3.58bn in integrated circuits is the largest individual product going to Ireland, making up the overwhelming majority of Ireland's imports from Israel.

Meanwhile, Italy exports to Israel more than any other country that signed the statement. Its US$3.49bn of exports included US$116m in cars in 2023.

Do these countries recognise Palestine?

Of those countries that issued the statement, Ireland and Spain recognised Palestine in 2024 and have spoken strongly against Israel's actions in Gaza. Still, that has not stopped them from continuing trade with Israel.

Seven other countries that signed the statement also recognise the State of Palestine, including Cyprus, Malta and Poland, all of which recognised Palestine in 1988, shortly after the Palestinian Declaration of Independence.

Iceland (2011), Sweden (2014), Norway (2024) and Slovenia (2024)

also recognise the State of Palestine while France said it will do so in September at the United Nations General Assembly.

Who signed the statement?

Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Cyprus, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and the UK.

All of them are still trading with Israel.

What was Israel's reaction to the statement?

As expected.

Oren Marmorestein, a spokesperson for the Israeli Ministry of Foreign Affairs, wrote on X that Israel rejects the statement, saying "it is disconnected from reality and sends the wrong message to Hamas".

What else are countries trading with Israel doing?

France, Germany and the UK called for an "immediate ceasefire" in Gaza and "unconditional release of all hostages" after they held an emergency call to discuss the war and the hunger crisis created by Israel's siege and aid blockade on the enclave.

Has any of this made Israel change its behaviour?

Attention has turned heavily towards the starvation of Palestinians in Gaza, leading even longtime Israeli stalwart supporters like former US presidential candidate Hillary Clinton to address the issue.

This pressure has led Israel to announce "tactical pauses" for "humanitarian purposes" from 10am to 8pm (07:00 to 17:00 GMT) in al-Mawasi, Deir el-Balah and Gaza City. They started on Sunday.

Despite the pauses, Israeli forces killed at least 43 Palestinians early on Sunday.

The Palestinian Ministry of Health in Gaza said on Sunday that it had recorded six more deaths over 24 hours due to famine and malnutrition, including two children.

This brings the total number of starvation deaths to 133, including 87 children.
