Central Volleyball Association League kicks off

■ Pinehas K Pinehas

The Central Volleyball League (CVL) season officially kicked off on Saturday, 11 April 2026, at the UNAM main campus gym hall and outdoor courts, as well as at the Patrick Iyambo Police College in Windhoek.

The referee director of the CVL, Abiatar Andreas, has invited the public and volleyball enthusiasts to attend matches over the weekends and support the teams.

"Your presence will motivate the players and bring great energy that will inspire both the players and officials. Don't miss this opportunity, it's going to be exciting," he said.

The opening fixtures delivered thrilling volleyball action. A standout match between UNAM Kings D

Volleyball Club and Afrocat E Volleyball Club set the tone for what promises to be a competitive season. Afrocat E displayed dominance throughout most of the match, winning three sets to one (3-1) in a four-set encounter.

Following the match, this publication spoke to the coaches of both teams to get their perspectives on the season ahead.

FiddenySillinda, head coach of UNAM Kings D, said the team is aiming to challenge the top sides in the league despite being a development squad.

"The league has started, and our goal is to challenge the big guns. Yes, we are a development team, but we have the personnel to cause a few upsets," he said.

Sillinda expressed confidence in his team despite the loss, highlighting areas that need improvement.

"We had a chance to win the game, but when the players' morale dropped, it affected the entire team. We need to go back to the drawing board and build confidence. Our primary focus will be on improving our defence, as our attack is already strong," he added.

Meanwhile, Afrocat E head coach Ishitile Aloisius described the victory as a bonus, emphasising the team's developmental focus.

"Winning is just a bonus. Our team is focused more on development, and if we win, we appreciate it. I'm very happy with the team, they showed up ready and performed well. We are running a strong development programme in Katutura, and I'm proud of what we achieved," he said.

Nanso raises funds for #FixMySchool

■ Hilma Nalupe

The Namibia National Students Organisation (Nanso) hosted a corporate 7-a-side football tournament in Windhoek on Saturday, aimed at raising funds for its #FixMySchool initiative.

The tournament brought together 12 corporate teams, each contributing N$2 000 towards the campaign. In total, the event raised N$26 600, which will go towards repairing and restoring school furniture, particularly desks and chairs.

Beyond fundraising, the event also served as a platform to raise awareness and mobilise support for improving education infrastructure across the country. By engaging corporate entities, Nanso sought to encourage broader participation in addressing the challenges faced by many schools.

According to Nanso spokesperson Jessy Abraham, the #FixMySchool initiative forms part of the organisation's ongoing efforts to advocate for better learning conditions nationwide.

"Our learners are still learning on broken chairs and tables. Many of our schools face a serious resource deficit. To ensure that our learning spaces are dignified and conducive, we have launched this initiative," she said. Abraham further emphasised the importance of collective responsibility in improving the education sector, noting that all stakeholders have a role to play.

"It is important for everyone to understand their role as stakeholders in education, whether as community members, parents, guardians, or learners themselves," she added.

Participants echoed similar sentiments, highlighting the significance of contributing to a meaningful cause. Josef Shivute, captain of Saintz FC, one of the teams that took part in the tournament, said that while his team did not advance to the finals, their participation was driven by a larger purpose.

"Even though we didn't make it to the finals, we are focused on the bigger picture, which is investing in future generations," he said.

The initiative continues to gain momentum as Nanso explores more ways to address infrastructure challenges in schools and create a more conducive learning environment for learners across Namibia.
